

the system above is responsible for processing patient information and generating an alert if the patient information crosses certain thresholds. AlertGenerator creates an instance of the Alert object which takes patient information from the dataStorage system which logs patient information. AlertGenerator uses the evaluate data to check if there is need to create an alert. AAlertManager is then responsible for distribution of the alert.