

This system is responsible for securely storing Patient information, both historical and real time. By using the `dataStorage` class we can update our patient database, that is, add new patient data, or delete patient data (probably per request of patient for death etc). To retrieve this patient data, there is need to instantiate a data retriever object and query our database.